

4 Facts About Scandinavia That You Can Only Learn If You Visit This Place

Scandinavian countries are known because of their rich culture, architecture and natural landscapes and thus people are attracted towards these regions like a magnet catching iron. But there are many other fun facts about Scandinavian countries and their people which you can only learn if you visit this place and that too with the help of guided tours as at www.firebirdtours.com/scandinavia.html;

Seafood is a great thing:

Yes there are many beaches over there and that is why people take the sea food very seriously to an extent that almost all the restaurants close to the sea can give you the option of sea food whether it is an evening snack or breakfast or dinner. Name the seafood you want to eat and it is very likely that you will get it in different flavors and style of cooking.

You will have to try skiing for sure and sailing:

Particularly in Norway, people love to do skiing may it is cross country skiing or ski jumping and this type of sport is loved by everybody and this makes you prepared for the idea that if you are going to Norway, it is a must to learn skiing on snow areas otherwise people are going to scare you with their questioning eyes that you went to Norway and did not try their popular sport. As far as sailing is concerned, it is enjoyed in many of the Scandinavian countries where you can say hello to many marine animals and thus you should try that too.

Known as happiest countries in world:

People in Scandinavian countries know how to enjoy themselves as they have so many tourist spots in their countries that they are mostly seen out of their houses having fun with family. They also like to stay and eat at home together and this explains why they are the happiest. They will also be very welcoming to you while you visit them as a tourist.

So many weird outdoor festivals:

There are many different kind of festivals organized in Scandinavian countries which may involve dancing around the poles or catching flowers to put under the pillows of people at night and so many more and you will enjoy them. More information about the festivals can be obtained if you visit the link above or the guides you can hire.